We build products we intend to stand behind.

Nusware is an independent Saudi software company. We create, own, and operate our products from one disciplined foundation—combining product thinking, design, engineering, and long-term stewardship.

A product company, not an agency

We do not build commissioned software for clients. We identify enduring problems, turn them into useful products, and remain responsible after launch.

One team owns the experience

The same company shapes the interface, writes the software, operates the infrastructure, supports users, and decides what comes next.

Built beyond the first release

Launch begins a product's life. Reliability, privacy, maintenance, and careful improvement remain part of the product.

Nothing is handed off. Nothing is outsourced.

The people who design a Nusware product are the people who build it, ship it, run it, and keep it alive.

01

Product design

Research, flows, interface, motion, and a design system refined until the product feels clear.

02

Desktop & web

Windows, macOS, Linux, and the web from a shared core, with each build suited to its platform.

03

Backends & infrastructure

APIs, sync, storage, hosting, monitoring, and operations owned by the team that wrote them.

04

Privacy & security

Minimised data, encryption, exportability, access controls, and privacy shaped through architecture.

05

Bilingual & RTL

Arabic and English treated as first-class languages across writing, typography, layout, and behavior.

06

Long-term stewardship

Releases, maintenance, documentation, support, and deliberate evolution after launch.

nusuq—the first Nusware product.

One calm home for planning, creating, organizing, and collaborating across desktop and the web.

nusuq

A customizable workspace that brings documents, spreadsheets, tasks, notes, habits, calendars, boards, canvases, files, and workflows into one considered system.

English + Arabic

Desktop + web

Realtime collaboration

Private by default

Personal + Teams

Owned and operated by Nusware.

Nusware designs the interface, engineers the applications and services, runs the infrastructure, publishes each release, and supports the people who use it.

One product team, from first idea to daily operation.

We choose the problems, shape the experience, operate every release, and remain responsible for what each product becomes.

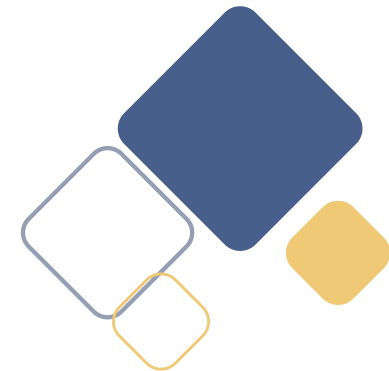

A release begins the responsibility.

Every part of the product stays connected to the people making decisions about its future.

Calm, private, coherent, responsible.

- 01 Clarity before volume
A smaller set of understandable capabilities is more valuable than features without a clear purpose.
- 03 Systems that stay coherent
Design, language, and engineering should reinforce one another as a product grows.
- 05 Bilingual from day one
Arabic and English are conceived together rather than one being fitted around the other.
- 02 Privacy by structure
Privacy belongs in architecture and operating decisions, not only in promises and settings.
- 04 Responsibility over novelty
We favor dependable progress and long-lived products over novelty that adds noise.

Independent by design. Accountable by choice.

Nusware is being built as a focused, durable software company: close to its products, clear about its decisions, and directly accountable to the people who rely on what it makes.

We create

We choose durable problems and shape products with a clear point of view.

We own

Our products, technology, experience, and roadmap remain one coherent responsibility.

We operate

Infrastructure, releases, privacy, reliability, and support continue after launch.
